

MASTER OF PUBLIC POLICY

The Master of Public Policy (MPP) in the Biden School of Public Policy & Administration at the University of Delaware provides advanced analytic and substantive knowledge of public policy to educate professionals for work in the public, private, and non-profit sectors on issues of public concern at all levels, local to global.

The MPP trains students to analyze complex policies and craft solutions that will effectively address the most pressing problems facing our society.

This interdisciplinary degree draws from multiple fields of study, including economics, political science, sociology, psychology, education, law, history, and public health.

Our MPP degree focuses on professional skills in public policy analysis, evaluation, and communication.

AREAS OF INTEREST

Students have 9 elective credits to use to study an area of interest. Possible areas of interest include:

- ◆ Urban Policy
- ◆ Social Policy
- ◆ Emergency Management
- ◆ Health Policy

FUTURE CAREER

MPP graduates often serve in a “translational” role between researchers, advocates, and policymakers to solve real-world problems. They help policymakers to understand complex data, evaluate research findings, develop recommendations, and implement policies that meet the demands of diverse stakeholders.
