::Vice President:: (Robert Garland) Email: rgarland@udel.edu

If you came in late, sign in on the sheet.

- Social (Tracy Howard)
  - No news. It’s good news.
  - Wanted Rob to tell all of you that we don’t get to socialize anymore. You should probably sit one chair apart from now on, and take separate staircases up to 310. (Just kidding).

- Publicity (Alyssa Benedetto)
  - No shows, so no publicity.

- JAX (Abby Stenner, Baroness of JAX)
  - JAX is still moldy.
  - We still have costumes. Yay.
  - JAX still has PTTP costumes due to a cleaning snafu (apparently the cleaners closed), so we’re holding them until PTTP tells us what to do.

- Fundraising (Tracy Howard)
  - It’s done now. We’re in the black.

- Historian (Lucy McCully)
  - Still needs to scrapbook the pictures from R&G, but she will do that
  - Kelli has publicity from R&G for her to peruse and scrapbook, etc.

- Website (Tyler Rommel)
  - We have one.
  - It has been updated. Luckily, before his computer crashed. Sad faces for all.

- Tech (Lisa Lafferty)
  - There will be a tech closet cleanup soon. An email will be sent with more information.
• Alumni (Callie Eros)
  o We have them. They’re alive. And they have excellent timing.
  o Will be sending out the alumni email tonight after the meeting.
  o Rob has the alumni book for her.

• Props (Andrea Fendt)
  o No news.

• Banquet (Danielle Hillenbrand) ([email: danihill@udel.edu])
  o THIS SATURDAY
  o In the Ewing Room on the second floor of Perkins, at a yet-indetermined time (probably be between 7:30-8:00).
  o BRING FOOD.
  o Dress as your favorite literary character / pirate.

• Hair and Make-up Chair (Fallon Rice)
  o No real news.
  o Hopefully, will soon be able to replace what’s left of the hair and makeup stuff.

• Room Reservation (Kelli Shermeyer)
  o Will email everyone with the exact timing for Saturday.

ROB TAKES OVER because Kelli has to leave.

CHAIRS are required to attend one exec board meeting a month. Show up, or bad things will happen. Pandemonium.

::Exec Chair:: (Meghan Gonzalez) email: meggon@udel.edu

Due to the appalling (she repeats appalling) amount of post-shows that she got for R&G (that is to say, practically none), she is extending the deadline until midnight on Thursday to send in your post-show to Meg. She really does want them. Your opinion is important to her.

Meg begs for post-shows. Take pity on this poor, deprived creature.

::Treasurer:: (John Lowe) Email: lowejm@udel.edu

No more receipts, since R&G closed. Except for the ones pertaining to the banquet.

Will have the remaining R&G checks for people next week.

Miscellaneous receipts (from chairs, etc.) should go to him as soon as possible.

When you give him receipts, he needs printed the legal name of the person the check is going to, the budget and show the receipt is for, and the signature of the person in charge of the budget. If you need your money back fast, you need to let him know!!

::Secretary:: (Casey Eros) Email: ceros@udel.edu

The question of the week last week was: What is the funniest thing that’s ever happened to you on Thanksgiving? Or, if you don’t celebrate Thanksgiving, what’s the funniest thing that’s ever happened at a big family gathering?

The winner was Lee McCormick with his answer of: “My most memorable Thanksgiving involved extended family as many such celebrations do. I was in high school in the dark ages, but we had football.
My high school football team this particular year had gone undefeated all season prior to the holiday. I had an uncle (they had those in the dark ages, honest) who was a sports nut – played in them, coached them, watched them on TV (this had just been invented!) and talked about them constantly – everything was a sports reference. His family was joining ours for the turkey feast, so I invited him to come early and go with my dad, brother and I to the annual Thanksgiving high school rivalry football game before all the eating (leaving the women to do the cooking which is how it worked back then). I expected a slaughter…and got one. Unfortunately, it didn’t go quite as I’d planned it. Our team injured their quarterback early in the game and was leading 14-3 at the end of the first quarter of play. Their second string quarterback came on the field and proceeded to thwomp us 41-17! The QB that came off the bench was named Don Strock who did very well in college and went on to play for the Miami Dolphins and the Cleveland Browns in a 14-year NFL career before finally deciding he had enough money to stop allowing 300+ pound people to fall on him. My uncle gave me grief about the great football team I’d talked up to him and their kindness and generosity in throwing the game after injuring the other teams QB so that the other team’s players could have a nice thanksgiving….for almost 40 years he ‘helped me remember’ that very notable Thanksgiving day!!”

He wins a stuffed penguin!

Also, WE VOTED on The Spectre Bridegroom, and it passed! Fallon’s show will go on in March 2010. Get very excited.

::Student Rep:: (Kurt Meusel) Email: kmeusel@udel.edu

He has an Encore! It is apparently awesome.

Starting to write constitutional stuff. We will vote on it next semester.

::Others::

Nope.

::Question of the Week::

Our Fall Banquet is right around the corner, and it’s gonna be awesome! If we could have our spring banquet anywhere (any country, any time period, any planet), where would you want it to be?
